GEORGIANS AND WARRIORS SHAKING HANDS AFTER A 'FRIENDLY' CONTEST

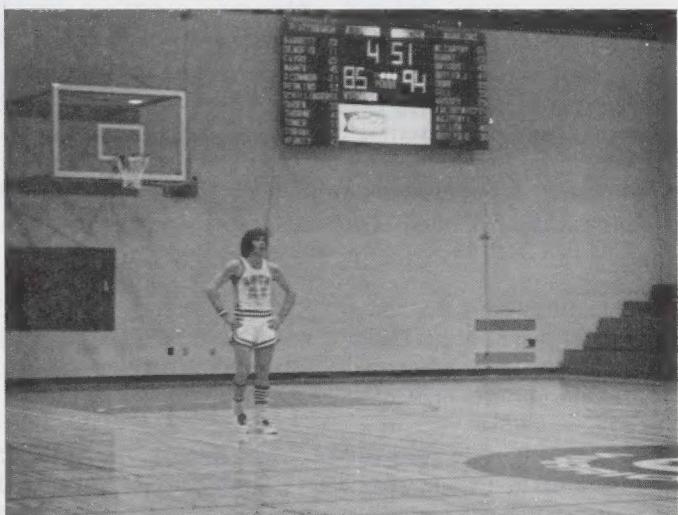

This first edition of the Concordian Sports Program is dedicated to the memory of the Sir George Williams Georgians and the Loyola Warriots and Tommies. The two schools, arch rivals for many years, were recently joined together as the result of a managerial decision.

The victories, defeats, ties, records, championships, individual and team accolades, the joys and suffering and everything else synonymous with Sir George and Loyola athletics are now the domain of the historians.

It is not ours to dwell on the past, but to look forward to a new chapter in Canadian intercollegiate sport. Concordia athletics has a rich heritage to emulate in the coming years.

As Concordia now takes its turn we bid adieu to Sir George and Loyola.

Thanks for the memories.

... BUT IT IS ALL OVER NOW

BASKETBALL

Doug Daigneault is approaching his tenth season, as head varsity basketball coach, with mixed apprehension. While he has a nucleus of four veteran Americans, he realizes that the ultimate success of this year's squad lies in the hands of Canadian rookies.

Second team All-Canadian John Erglis, Ron Puskarich, Bob Brix and Doug Merlin are returning lettermen who have played three seasons for Coach Daigneault. Erglis, one of the most exciting players in Canada, will be counted on to quarterback the team's offence.

Puskarich, a first team QUAA All-Star the past two seasons, is expected to improve upon last season when he led the team in scoring, averaging over 20 points per game. Brix, plagued throughout the 1974-75 season with a series of minor injuries, is capable of providing Concordia with scoring and rebounding from the forward spot. Rounding out the returnees is 6'6" Doug Merlin, last year's leading rebounder who was voted the team's Most Improved Player.

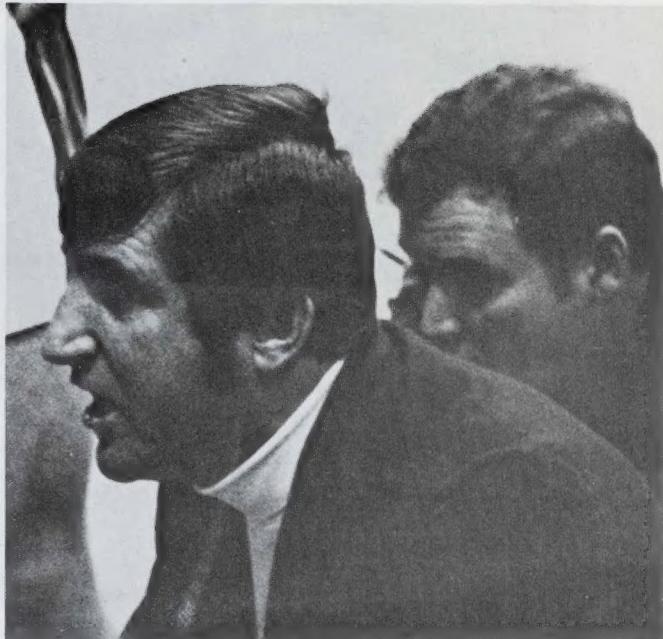

However, Daigneault will sorely miss the presence of his three graduating seniors, Garry Miller, John Dore and Jack Kalinkewicz. Miller and Kalinkewicz co-captained last year's squad and were invaluable coming off the bench. Dore, a 6'0" guard from Queens, New York, averaged 14 points a game at the guard spot and always drew the task of guarding the opposition's high scorer.

Daigneault will receive little help from Sir George which also lost several players through graduation. All-Canadian Mike Moore, John Zukauskas and Preston Jennings have all graduated, while Zan Pelzer, another All-Canadian selection last year, has left school because of financial difficulties.

To fill the spots vacated by Kalinkewicz, Miller and Dore, Daigneault has recruited an impressive list of Canadian high-schoolers. Heading the list is Jim Heywood, a 6'7" center from Hamilton, Ontario. Daigneault rates Heywood as a sleeper who could solve Concordia's rebounding problems. Joining Heywood is Frank Zulys, a 6'6" forward from Michael Power High School in Toronto, and Chris McNeilly a 6'2" swingman from Jarvis Collegiate in Toronto.

Another addition for the 1975-76 season is former Sir George coach, Mike Hickey, who will assist Daigneault this year. After two years of battling each other for the league title, the duo will now join forces.

Concordia faces one of the toughest schedules in Canada, appearing in five tournaments as well as a Maritime swing against perennial national powers Acadia, St. Mary's and St. Francis Xavier.

FOOTBALL

Football is perhaps the only sport which will not initially be affected by the Sir George-Loyola athletic merger. Sir George dropped their football programme after the 1972 season and the majority of their players have either graduated or transferred to other schools. But Coach Doug Daigneault feels that the combined campuses will aid his recruiting in future years.

Daigneault's goal for the 1975 season is to reach the sectional playoffs which eluded his Loyola Warriors in 1974. And while he has a solid crop of returning lettermen the Concordians will be without an experienced quarterback. Neil Greeley, a four-year starter with the Warriors, has graduated and last year's back-up Joe Perri has left school because of family problems.

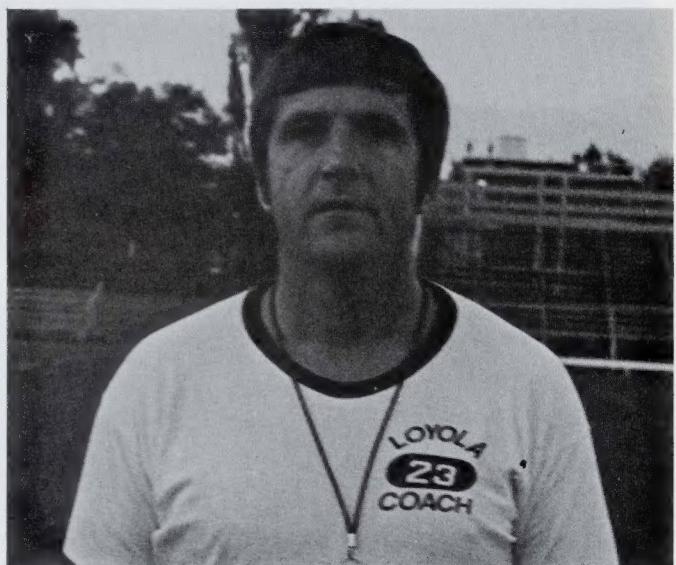

Daigneault hopes that rookie Andy Mosley will solve his quarter-backing problems. Mosley was an all-league signal-caller from Ogdensburg, New York and could break into the starting line-up in his rookie year.

Other veterans gone from last year's 3-3 squad are Art Neiderbuhl, Bob Scott, and Scott Hershey. Neiderbuhl, a safety, was selected to the All-Canadian squad in 1972 while linebacker Scott was picked for the QUAA Eastern all-star team in 1974.

One plus for Concordia will be the return of running back Wade Clair. Clair, who finished second in the QUAA in rushing last season averaging 6.1 yards a carry, was a late-cut from the Saskatchewan Roughriders this summer.

The Concordians will open the '75 season hosting Queen's University. The Golden Gaels, who always field competitive teams, will have added incentive this season as head coach Frank Tindall enters his final season as head coach.

After the Queen's contest, the footballers play three away games that will probably decide their playoff hopes. In three consecutive Saturdays they travel to McGill, Ottawa and Bishop's. They close out the regular season with home games against Bishop's, Carleton and McGill.

Paul Arsenault and Bobby Philip will be reunited once again this year as they prepare to field the first-ever Concordia hockey team. And they are hopeful their reunion will bring Quebec its first national ice title.

Philip played for Arsenault back in the late 60's at Sir George Williams and then spent two years at the downtown university as Paul's assistant. When Coach Arsenault left for Loyola in 1972, Philip took over the head coaching job at Sir George, piloting the Georgians to a regular league championship in his rookie year. This year Philip and Pete Regimbald will assist Arsenault with the varsity squad. "Bobby, Pete and myself will be acting more as tri-coaches than anything else," Arsenault declared.

"The ultimate decision in any matter will be mine, but only after consulting with Bob and Pete. I have worked with both Bob and Pete before and we have never experienced any problems."

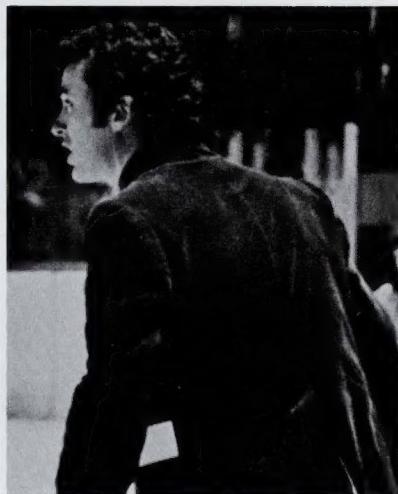

Arsenault has fifteen returning lettermen from last year's Loyola squad which reached the national semi-finals. Leading the list is goalie Jim Corsi, last season's M.V.P. and the Loyola Athlete of the Year for the past two years. Corsi played in 40 of the 44 games the Warriors played last year, amassing a 2.73 goals-against-average. Other returnees include: Dave Wilson, an all-Canadian selection last year when he scored 41 goals; Mark Shewchuk, a former all-Canadian winger at Sir George; defenceman Bob Lagarde, an outstanding puck carrier; Randy Mohns, Loyola's rookie of the year in 1973-74; Ron Hansis strong left winger who was sidelined by knee injury last season and John Harris, a former member of the Toronto Marlboros; Ricky Moore, a former QUAA all-Star and member of the Junior Canadiens, joined Loyola at the Christmas break last season.

In addition, Arsenault expects several Sir George veterans to make valuable contributions to the 1975-76 Concordia club. Jean-Marie Pomminville, Sir George's M.V.P. in his rookie season, is expected to team up with Corsi to give Concordia the best goaltending in Canada. Brian Martin, a QUAA all-Star and ex-"Pro" Glen Cickello will strengthen the blue line corps. Another ex-professional Stu Davison, a high-scoring forward who sat out last season; Brian Belland and Gaetan Potvin are also expected to crack the line-up for the new University.

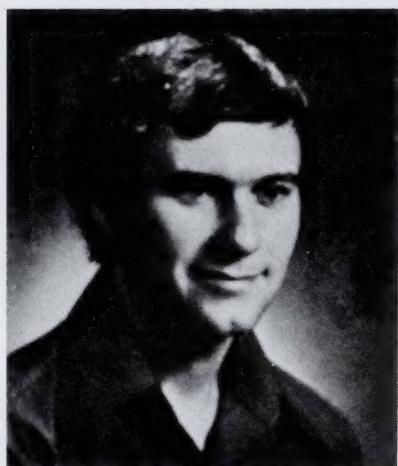

Coach Arsenault cautioned that the success of this year's team will be based on hard-work and effort rather than potential. "Ability alone will not win anybody a spot on our squad. We have a demanding training camp, and practice schedule that will weed out those players who aren't willing to make sacrifices".

With the emergence of the U.Q.T.R. Patriotes as a national contender and the arrival of the Laval Rouge et Or, Concordia appears to be headed for a tough battle for league honors this year. But the coaching staff hopes to repeat last year's performance and find themselves in the thick of the fight for the national championships.

"A mature returning nucleus from the two campuses will make us strong contenders in the QUAA and on the national level." That is how coach Harry Hus described the 1975 edition of the Concordia soccer team.

Hus has every reason to be optimistic about the upcoming season. After all, he is coaching a team composed of last season's QUAA champion Loyola Warriors and the second-place Sir George Williams' Georgians. And while the former Loyola star would love to bring the national soccer title back to Montreal, he knows he must face a tough league schedule before eyeing the national picture.

Laval, which always fields competitive teams, and McGill figure to give the Concordians their toughest battles. The Rouge et Or finished third in the QUAA last year while the Redmen are returning to the intercollegiate scene after an absence of five years.

Jim Corsi, Rick Knopp, Mark Sosnowski, Mike Reynolds and goalie Wally Smith of Loyola and Jacob Nainudel and Adel Bicheleni from Sir George should comprise Hus' "mature nucleus". Other returning players counted on to contribute are Brad de Souza, George Sretr, Trevor Murray and Steve Koussaya.

Concordia will field varsity and junior varsity squads this year. The J.V. team will play against local CEGEPs as well as the top junior teams in the city. Harry Noetzel will coach the J.V. squad as well as assist Hus in the Varsity programme. Coach Hus plans to use the J.V.s as a feeder system, grooming inexperienced players for the varsity club.

While the Concordians are expected to be an explosive scoring team they must correct weaknesses in the backfield. Hus hopes to convert some of his veteran wingers into backs to fill the gap.

"We have the personnel to win the QUAA and put up a good showing in the Nationals," Hus recently stated. "If the players are willing to work hard and together, we should have a very productive year".

And the soccer Concordians should be well on their way towards another shot at the coveted national crown.

end of a rivalry;

When the board of governors merged the athletic departments of the Sir George Williams and Loyola campuses on June 24th it ended one of Quebec's most noted rivalries. The combined campuses have fought each other for league titles and national prestige since the mid-60's.

Contests between the two schools in recent years usually meant close games, standing-room-only crowds, and even the occasional riot. And while the departmental staffs are sad to see the end of a long rivalry, they are eagerly looking forward to a new era of Concordia athletics.

Dr. Enos, the director of the new department stated that, "with the combined resources and personnel of the two schools working together, Concordia should have one of the top athletic and physical education departments in Canada. We expect to field intercollegiate teams that will continue to vie for league and national honours. Our intramural program will offer over thirty-five programs on the two campuses. And our bio-physical education program is geared towards attracting students from throughout North America."

Enos points out that Concordia athletics may also be able to present the new university with a unifying force. While the marriage between the two schools has been less than blissful, the merger of the two athletic departments is a study in tranquility; one department serving the needs of both campuses, with one intercollegiate programme representing all students.

The chief concern of the new department will be to fulfill the athletic and recreational needs of each and every Concordia student. The Intercollegiate programs will continue to give high calibre athletes an opportunity to compete against the best teams in Canada. The expanded intramural programme will be divided into three sections and will be offered on both campuses;

- a) Co-ed recreational - for the students who merely wish to participate in a low-key programme.
- b) Co-ed instructional - programs with the emphasis on learning new skills and techniques in the field of martial arts, dancing and sports
- c) Competitive intramurals - designed for those who have a strong desire to compete against fellow students in individual and team sports.

All in all it should be an interesting first-year for Concordia athletics.

SGW CAMPUS

The Women's Athletic program of Sir George Williams blossomed with the appointment of Sally Kemp as the first Woman Athletic Director in 1964.

Under her guidance the university entered the Ontario Quebec Women's League in 1966 and participated in Basketball, Volleyball, Swimming and Skiing on the intercollegiate side. Miss Kemp also offered seven intramural and recreational programs to the student body at that time.

Sir George's women have remained in intercollegiate sports over the years and joined the Quebec University Athletics Association when it was formed in 1971, participating in Basketball, Volleyball, Ice Hockey and Mixed Curling.

With the acquisition of Birks Hall as a permanent Intramural facility in 1972 the Women's Athletic Department has been able to expand its intramural program considerably and offers a well-balanced structure for every student's interest. Class times are staggered so that both Day and Evening Students are able to attend the sessions.

21 programs are offered at the moment with Modern Dance, Rock Jazz and Yoga for the artistic minded students to Fitness, Ski Conditioning and five martial arts to choose from on the instructional side.

Co-ed Badminton, Basketball and Volleyball have been introduced to Intramurals this year. These sports have been very popular in other universities across Canada and the Director of Intramurals predicts that they will get off the ground with great success this season.

LOYOLA CAMPUS

The women at Loyola have come a long way since they first set foot on the campus in 1963. Through the years the women's athletic program has mushroomed from its first sparse offerings to include virtually everything from competitive varsity sport to wielding an épée, jogging for fun, and falling from airplanes. As well as mushrooming, the program has also intensified, and after several shaky years of competition when the Loyola Tommies were the league doormat, they have finally come of age. Today they play for fun, but they also play to win, a tradition long since established by their male counterparts, the Loyola Warriors. Today they share the Athletic Complex with the men as accepted, credible, and legitimate athletes, a far cry from the days when the men laughed at them as they stumbled around the gym and tripped along the ice.

The Tommies have gradually been establishing a reputation as a team with which to be reckoned in the Quebec Universities Athletic Association. In the fall of 1972 the Tommies made their first dent on the QUAA scene when they sneaked in the back door at the Université Laval in Quebec City, and upset the host team to take home the QUAA tennis championship, the first-ever QUAA title for the women.

The following year (1973-74) the Loyola Hockey Tommies took the campus by storm after sweeping to titles in the Loyola Invitational Tournament and the QUAA, as well as gaining national acclaim with appearances on CBC's Hockey Night in Canada and the CBS Saturday Night News. In addition, goalie Janet Norman appeared in Sports Illustrated's "Faces In the Crowd" after leading the Tommies to a 21-6 season, including nine shutouts and a goals-against average of 1.05.

A History of

During the 1974-75 season the basketball Tommies had their turn in the limelight after winning the York University Invitational, and their first-ever QUAA Championship. Led by former national team stand-out, Liz Silcott, the Tommies went on to represent Loyola in the National finals in Fredericton, where they lost a heartbreaking overtime thriller to host school UNB 89-88 in the consolation final. Three Loyola players - Silcott, Elaine Betchinski and 6 foot Paddie Chiara were selected to the QUAA all-star team.

Meanwhile, the Loyola Tommies' hockey team captured the Bishop's Invitational as well as its second Montreal Women's Hockey League title (after the QUAA abandoned women's hockey because of an insufficient number of teams), and Paddie Chiara won the league scoring crown. The Tommies received a measure of international coverage this year when a write-up and picture appeared in Warsaw's daily sports newspaper - the Sportowy.

The newest of the three Tommy varsity teams is the volleyball club, which under head coach Nick Timtsenko, has progressed from a cellar finish four years ago in the QUAA to make the league play-offs the past three seasons. Although toiling in virtual obscurity at Trenholme Park Gym the volleyball Tommies are a dedicated hard-working corps who have made some volleyball converts at a traditional hockey-basketball school.

In addition to their regular season competition and non-conference competition in Ontario, the Maritimes, and the Northeastern United States, Loyola and the Tommies play host every year to some of Canada's best teams in each of the three varsity sports. The fall season kicks off with a Volleyball Invitational Tournament, followed by the 8-team Loyola Invitational basketball tournament, which is considered by many to be the country's top women's tournament and a national indicator with four of Canada's five conferences represented, as well as two of the top U.S. teams. The third tournament of the season is the hockey invitational, and to date it is the only one that the host Loyola Tommies have managed to win, an indication of the high calibre of competition.

There is no doubt that things are happening on the women's scene at Loyola. The Tommies have definitely arrived. They have had a team nationally ranked for the first time in Loyola history; they have been accorded a place of honor in the Complex picture gallery, a place heretofore reserved for Loyola's men's teams; and there is speculation that former Tommy hockey-basketball stand-out and four time female athlete of the year winner, Diane Quart, may be the first woman elected to the Loyola Sports Hall of Fame.

Twelve years ago, Loyola didn't have any women students.

Six years ago, Loyola had women students, but they did not have a women's athletic director.

Four years ago, Loyola had a women's athletic director, but their varsity teams were getting clobbered.

But take a look at the performance of the women's athletic teams today, and you will see a lot has changed.

Practically overnight, but with a lot of hard work in between, Loyola has emerged with a first-class women's athletic program.

They used to laugh, but not anymore.

MARKETING MANAGEMENT TRAINEES

Burroughs has specific opportunities for students interested in a marketing career in data processing. We market the widest range of hardware in the industry and are recruiting students with Bachelor or Masters degrees for positions in Montreal.

Our Managers want graduates with long hair or short hair, with beards or without. But mainly with brains! Other requirements are a basic knowledge of accounting methods and a course in computer science or other computer-related subjects.

Excellent training programs, compensation plans and benefits.
